

APC Course - Social Security Disability

Assumed Knowledge

Legal Assistants and Paralegals who participate in the Social Security Disability Advanced Paralegal Certification course are expected to have good written and verbal communication skills. They should have had in depth experience dealing with clients and working with governmental entities. They should also possess a general knowledge of the hearing process.

In addition, it is helpful if participants have an understanding of medical terminology, as well as sources of information that are available to those working in this area such as medical web sites and the Social Security Administration's web site.
